

Now it's easy to show you care...

Care Messenger® TV makes keeping in touch easy for housing providers, carers, and family members, using familiar technology everyone can cope with.

Our unique system allows you to send text, image, or video messages from a mobile device or computer, straight to a television screen overlaying the content so messages can't be missed!

And the person getting the message can send a simple response back using their familiar television remote control.

Why Care Messenger®?

Care Messenger® is the ideal communication platform to address social isolation, loneliness, and digital exclusion among the elderly and vulnerable. It was created - and is now embedded in LG TVs - as a response to seven scientific facts (ONS, Ofcom and independent research).

FACT 01

The majority of the elderly and vulnerable population don't use a tablet, smartphone or laptop; don't have internet, a Facebook account, or an email address.

FACT 02

Elderly people are typically resistant to learning new things, particularly new tech.

FACT 03

A loss of dexterity and reduced motor-coordination makes it difficult for them to work with smaller mobile devices.

FACT 04

Tremors, arthritis and decreased blood flow makes using touch-screen devices difficult and less responsive.

FACT 05

Poorer eyesight (a common feature of ageing) means they struggle with the small print and graphics on mobile devices even when enlarged.

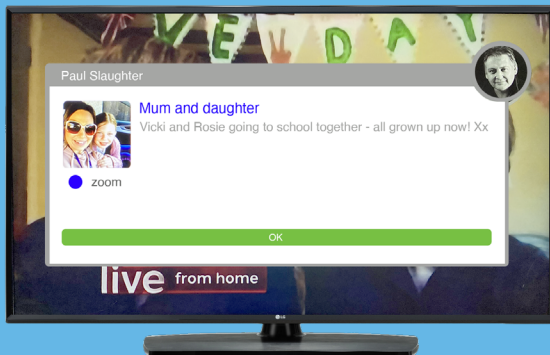

FACT 06

FACT 07

The elderly demographic are very comfortable and familiar with a TV and remote and spend more time with the TV than any other demographic.

Where everyone else is asking:

"How do we get the elderly to use some variant of existing smart mobile devices?"

We asked:

"How can we bring messaging and all the features modern tech devices open up, to the one device they're already comfortable with – the TV?"

Where everyone else is asking:

"How do you monitor elderly activity and look out for their physical safety?"

We asked:

"How can we use tech to connect with the elderly socially, and look after their psychological and social needs and wellbeing?"

"My mother has recently returned from a spell in hospital and we are using the system much more - Care Messenger has really come into its own. She is able to keep on top of all her daily medication and numerous appointments. Also, a number of family members have been using Care Messenger to great effect - mother absolutely loves getting messages from everyone. Local council Home Help visiting my mother have been impressed with Care Messenger. In short, Care Messenger is a fantastic and fun way to help my mother cope with life at home."
